"Léone Ouedraogo is the Senior Broadcast Journalist leading the French for Africa Business team at the BBC.
Léone is from Burkina Faso and grew up in Belgium; she went on to study Journalism in Brussels. Before joining the BBC in 2014, Léone worked for the Belga Press Agency in Belgium and the pan-African TV Channel Voxafrica.
The multi-talented journalist was one of the first presenters of BBC Infos, the French-speaking news bulletin for Africa at the BBC.
While working with the BBC, Léone has covered a wide range of different topics. Highlights include: the migrant crisis in Europe and elections in Africa.
She is regularly appearing in the BBC African weekly business French show, Questions d'Argent as presenter and columnist."